Relative clauses

1 a We often use relative clauses to make our writing more interesting. A relative clause often identifies the person or thing we're talking about. Underline the relative clauses in these sentences.

- 1 'I'm the person who has to find a buyer,' he said.
- 2 The first things that people used for money were sea shells.
- 3 We import food which can't be grown here.

b Where do we put the relative clause?

c Circle the relative pronouns in sentences 1–3 in exercise 1a. When do we use each one?
